The banquet was served by the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A., under the personal direction of Secretary Shewalter and was perfect in all its appointments. The hall was handsomely decorated for the occasion, many of the plants and flowers being from the gardens of Linden Hall, St. James Park, the home of Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran. U. S. BIGGEST BOOTLEGGER, CHARGE MADE

August Busch, President of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., Is Informant.

NOW ENROUTE TO FRANCE

Amazed to Learn Alcoholic Drinks Are Served in Bars on Steamers Operated by United States Shipping Board; Sale Is Affirmed by Head.

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, June 14—Charging the United States is "incomparably the biggest bootlegger in the world," the letter written by August A. Busch, president of the Anheuser-Busch, Inc., enroute to Europe aboard the S. S. George Washington, and which has been forwarded to President Harding has been made public here today together with an accompanying letter of Adolphus Busch, III, his son. A third letter by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., addressed to members of Congress requests an investigation of the enforcement department of the government in relation to the prohibition act.

The letter of August A. Busch to his associates says in part:

"We are now approaching the coast of France. As this vessel is operated by the United States Shipping Board I was amazed to learn the Shipping Board vessels are the 'wettest' on the ocean. I learned that passage on these ships has been sold with a positive money-back guarantee that the bars for the sale of intoxicating liquors will be thrown wide open as soon as they pass outside the three-mile coast line. This makes the United States incomparably the biggest bootlegger in the world."

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Shipping Board holds that "neither the Volstead Act nor the 18th amendment apply to American ships outside the three-mile limit," Chairman Lasker declared today in a letter to Adolphus Busch, III, vice-president of the Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis, confirming reports that alcoholic drinks were served on American ships at sea. Mr. Lasker affirmed the shipping board had approved this action "from the standpoint of the life and security of our national merchant marine."

"The Shipping Board has permitted and will continue to permit the serving of liquor on its ships," he continued, "so long as foreign ships are allowed to enter and depart from our shores exercising that privilege."

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Prohibitioner Commissioner Haynes declared today in a formal statement referring to the "prohibition afloat" pamphlet by the Anheuser-Busch Company that he would act in a vigorous manner to enforce the law as soon as the Department of Justice and the courts have determined whether the Volstead act applies to vessels sailing under the American flag. He added he would not break one law to enforce another.

PATROL OF STATE POLICE FOR YOUGH WILL BE SOUGHT

Only Means Fisheries Department Has to Break Up Illegal Angling.

SEASON NOT YET OPEN

Complaint Made to Commissioner Buller of Catching of Bass in Upper Portions Stream Brings Quick Response; State Short of Officers.

Following complaint to the Department of Fisheries, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, on pre-season bass fishing in the upper waters of the Youghiogheny river, word has been received here that an effort will be made at once to get in touch with the situation and it is likely that a detail of officers will investigate the reports.

For several weeks it has been the practice of some would-be sportsmen to visit the Upper Yough and take from it bass, in spite of the fact that the season is closed and that the females are spawning.

The letter in reply to a complaint from a local sportsman, signed by H. R. Stackhouse, chief clerk to N. R. Buller, commissioner of fisheries, says the department would like to have a regular officer in every county "so that we could keep in touch with these things at all times, but owing to insufficient appropriations it has been impossible to employ more than nine, and when you realize they must each cover six or seven counties, they cannot do justice to all the laws."

"During the present fishing season," the letter continues, "we have been securing the cooperation of the State Police and they have been bringing in good results. We are getting in touch with the superintendent this date with a request that a detail be sent to Connellsville and that they patrol the streams desired.

"It is the hope of the department that the resident fisherman's license will bring in sufficient funds so that we can employ more men; however, up to the present time the receipts have been rather disappointing and unless they come in in a larger amount this month it is going to be necessary to temporarily lay off some of our present help."

The opening of bass season is still 16 days off in this state, not coming in until July 1. At one time the season opened on June 15 but the date was changed to allow more time for the female to complete her duties of raising and protecting the young.

TONY KOGUT, DRIVER OF DEATH CAR, SENT TO REFORM SCHOOL

Tony Kogut of Everson, who entered a plea of guilty Tuesday to a charge of manslaughter as a result of the automobile accident on Work hill in which Miss Marie Bible of Everson was killed a few weeks ago, was sentenced by Judge Van Swearingen to Huntingdon Reformatory. The jury fixed the degree of crime as involuntary. Kogut, who was the driver of the death car, asked to be sent to Huntingdon in preference to any other institution.

Kogut is 18 years of age and an orphan. He had been sleeping in the garage of Joe Porimba of Everson and washing cars for persons who happened in the garage. On the witness stand he admitted that he took the car from the garage without permission of the owner and was driving without a license. He said he was just opening the door when he saw a party of young women and a young man passing and he invited them to get into the car and take a ride, which they did. Just prior to this, he said, Joe Orish had called the fire department, asking if any of the firemen wished to take a ride. He admitted driving the car fast but claimed that it was under his control until he approached the scene of the accident. He said he was driving between 30 and 35 miles per hour down the Work hill and that as he approached the last curve the brakes refused to work and he was unable to make the curve safely. He also admitted that the occupants of the car had cautioned him not to drive so fast.

The car skidded for 100 feet and stalled in the mud after tearing down four fence posts. Marie Bible was the only occupant of the car who was thrown out. She was found lying near the left rear wheel. Shortly after the accident Kogut disappeared and was not seen until he returned to the garage the following Tuesday. He stated that he feared bodily harm. Asked why he ran away he said he just "couldn't return."

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, JUNE 14, 1922.

Flag Day

Pittsburg Gazette Times

Officially "the Flag of the united states," reproducing literatim a portion of the original resolution creating the flag, is 146 years of age today. It is a curious feature that whoever penned the resolution capitalized "flag" but not the name of the nation. The flag adopted by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777, was an evolution from previous devices employed to denote the unification of the Colonies in a common cause. Nor has the flag remained as created except as it involves colors, stripes and stars. It has undergone repeated alterations though "13 stripes alternate red and white" is a fixture and the Union "white in a blue field" adds a star for every new state. While time has made necessary additions, in general appearance it is still the flag of the days of the Revolution.

The flag is the emblem of our national unity. It is not merely so much bunting, nor a variety of colors. Its stripes symbolize the beginning of our history as a nation and its stars the growth in nearly a century and a half of existence. It is fitting, then, its natal day should be observed and that exercises commemorative of that for which it stands should instruct the youth of the land in its significance. It has had a history in which every American may delight. It is not the flag of conquest or aggression. It is the banner of a free people living under a government of law. It stands for justice and for equality of opportunity. It has been followed by armies seeking the relief of the oppressed. Its colors have inspired millions of men marching to repel the aggressions of ruthless invader. It is our flag. Lessons in its meaning and mission will assist in keeping it unsullied.

A State History

Harrisburg Telegraph

U. S. Senator Sherman told the students of Lincoln College, Illinois, in a commencement address that all school histories ought to be burned. He declared that under the tutelage of such histories this generation "knows more about Belshazzar's last royal drunk and Alexander's butcheries than human justice. He pointed out that the ancient and medieval history taught the pupil is a menace, soiling the mind of the child, that it is principally an approved recital of crime by wholesale, mitigated by individual virtue at long intervals.

Dr. Finegan, in his program of education for Pennsylvania, is giving thought to the school histories, and especially to the preparation of a textbook on Pennsylvania history, which was suggested at a reception by the Chamber of Commerce of Harrisburg in honor of the head of the State educational system.

For years it has been obvious that the thousands of school children in Pennsylvania are not being given proper insight into the splendid development of this great Commonwealth, that they know too little of the famous men and the great steps that have been taken in the progress of all branches of the State's activities. Unfortunately, they have been told a great deal about the places made famous by the New England historians who have not been so eager in their desire to magnify the virtues of men and women of Pennsylvania as they have to enlarge the fame of those of Massachusetts and Virginia.

Dr. Finegan and his associates of the Department of Public Instruction [illegible] school history matter under consideration for some months, and it is understood definite steps to produce a worthy [illegible] book will be taken in the near future.

A Time to Laugh.

Chicago Black Diamond

While the union miners are devoting their days to fishing, gardening and other non-revenue producing pursuits the non-union miners are making the coal fly and at the same time are making more money than they ever did. They also are reducing their mortgages, are partaking of full rations, are buying new clothes for their families and are swelling their savings accounts in preparation of that rainy day which comes to all with the passing of the years. Do you suppose by any chance the non-union miners are laughing up their sleeves at the union miners?"

The Telephone Girl

Manchester N. H. Mirror

If you were a telephone girl and stood at a switchboard in a rush hour and if some one took the telephone off the hook when there were forty other people doing the same thing within a minute and if that person having waited ten seconds should ask you if you were asleep, how would you like it?

If you were a telephone girl and you had eighteen telephone wires with plugs at the ends inserted in eighteen connections to enable thirty-six people to talk and there were seven of those close together and a couple of people hung up their phones and you pulled out of the maze the wrong wire and cut two people off from talking would you think it fair if either of the victims swore a little and asked you if you were out late last night?

If you were at the switchboard and some one asked for a connection and the person desired did not answer the telephone, and if the party calling rattled the receiver rapidly, instead of slowly as he should, and the rattling of the phone hook did not register in the office, and if after a while he did get into communication with you, would you like him to ask you if you thought you were enjoying a pink tea?

It would, no doubt, do us all good to put ourselves in the other person's place whenever we are inclined to find fault with public service. Gas, electric light, trolley car, telephone, it is all the same. The employes generally do their work as well as they can.

Forget the Family's Future

McClure's Magazine.

According to figures published recently by a life insurance company, of every 100 men who die one leaves wealth, two leave comfort, fifteen leave from $2,000 to $10,000 and 82 leave nothing.

It is not stated how many of these men leave families but the majority of men are married and consequently have dependents. What happens to these dependents when the husband is gone?

A man who assumes the obligation of a wife and family should realize that his responsibility to them involves more than providing food, shelter and clothing from day to day; he should bear in mind that their futures also must be taken into account. And the time to think of the future is now.

Heavy Fire Damage In New Kensington

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., June 14.—A building in the business district here was destroyed by fire early today causing a loss of more than $250,000. Firemen for nearby towns were summoned to help fight the flames. Two fire fighters were overcome by smoke but were revived.

Need of Publicity in Business.

Philadelphia Ledger.

No business can broaden fully without publicity. The man in business who does not appreciate this fact is as dense or as obstinate as the officers of that life insurance and trust company which was one of the first in the field but which never got anywhere because it fought against accepting the telephone, the electric light, the typewriter and everything new including advertising.

THE SMALL BOY TELLS.

They say that the trouble with me is I go
Out to the neighbors and tell all I know
That when I'm at the table I'm certain to spread
Whatever is done and whatever is said
And they shut up like oysters whenever I'm there—
But Pa didn't like it when Sis bobbed her hair!

Ma says it's all right and she thinks it looks fine,
But Pa said I vowed that no daughter of mine
Should dress like a flapper and walk through the streets
To be winked at by every young fellow she meets
He was mad as a hornet and cross as a bear
And kicked up a rumpus when Sis bobbed her hair.

Ma said they've got to dress just like the girls
And nowadays nobody's wearing long curls,
And Aunty spoke up and said Just wait a bit
You'll like it that way when you get used to it
But Pa banged the table and said I could swear
At such a fool fashion when Sis bobbed her hair.

Ma thinks it looks lovely and sister is glad,
And the servant is sure that it doesn't look bad
But Pa's mad about it. He said I don't care
I thought you'd more sense than to cut off your hair
But don't go and tell them that I told you so
Cause they say that I tell everything I know.

No Oil in Somerset and Bedford, Geologists Say

There is no gas or oil in Somerset and Bedford counties, so far as the studies of the United States Geological Survey have determined, nor has the State Geological Survey knowledge of any. This information is given out in reply to queries made to the national and state bodies.

Writing to H. M. Sadler of Greensburg, in reply to a query, Director George Otis Smith of the United States Geological Survey says:

"The Geological Survey knows of no occurrence of either oil or gas in Bedford or Somerset county, nor is there any prospect that commercial quantities of these minerals will be found in those counties. Oil and gas may once have existed there, but the rocks which may have contained them have been so altered that they have either been driven off or changed into some other substance. The same is true of the eastern portions of Cambria and Westmoreland counties. In the western parts of these counties there are some small fields yielding a little oil and gas, and similar pools may be discovered in the future. Such oil as has been found is of very high grade, compensating in part for the small quantity."

In a letter to John S. Miller of Somerset, George H. Ashley, state geologist, says relative to Bedford county:

"A question has arisen concerning which I would like your advice. As you know, considerable excitement has been stirred up in Bedford county regarding the occurrence of oil, and certain oil companies are making very definite, and to my mind unwarranted statements regarding the oil situation in Bedford county, and I doubt if any other competent geologist can be found who believes in the existence of large deposits of oil there.

"A member of the Survey was present at the time that a recent well in Bedford county was pumped out and subscribed to the belief of those present that little or no oil could exist in the well.

"I would be glad for any suggestions you would make as to what should be done to prevent the people of your district from losing a lot of money in what I believe every geologist thinks is a losing venture."

TRADE MARK

DORRISVILLE, Ga.

"I thought I would write to let you know how I am getting along since I have been using your wonderful remedies. I am doing fine and now feel like I had something to live for. Have been a sufferer of female disorders for 15 long years and have tried many remedies, but they did not do me any good only for a day or so. Am sorry I did not learn of your medicine at the beginning of my ill health, as I feel I would have been a well woman years ago. I will forever praise your remedies, as they were a God send to me, and you are at liberty to publish my letter if you think it will help some other sufferer as it did me."

FEFFIE NEELY, Box 101.

"I wish to write you to tell how much good your treatments did for me. I feel that it saved me from an operation, as I was bedfast when I began to use it, and my doctor said I would never get well until I was operated on, but as that was against my will, I never gave up, and now I am able to do my housework and laundry and am glad to recommend your medicine to anyone. You may, if you wish, use my letter."

The HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

Dahlia, Queen of Autumn

NEW DAHLIA TYPES.

The flower of fashion, queen of the early autumn, just now is the dahlia. The dahlia is an ancient occupant of the gardens, but only in the last few years has it regained the popularity it enjoyed in great measure with our grandmothers who had only a few tight-quilled, stiff, formal flowered varieties.

Now the huge blooms of loose, graceful form and amazing texture are the greater testimonial to the florists' art.

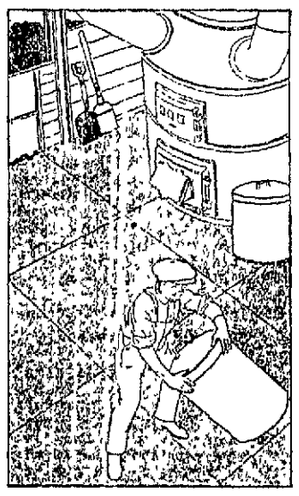

Cactus flowered varieties with pointed petals, giant single sorts of the Century type, huge peony flowered types, show, decorative and pompoms make the dahlia almost as diversified of form as the chrysanthemum which succeeds it in the garden in the late fall.

The development of California as one of the great dahlia originating centers of the world and better knowledge of growing the plants have made it popular. Formerly it wasn't the easiest plant in the world to grow. Often it would furnish a fine growth of leaves and stalks but no bloom to speak of. We thought we must sprout the tubers early in the house. Now we know that late planting is best and that we should be in no hurry to sprout the tubers; in fact let them alone until they sprout themselves and June is plenty of time to plant them out.

We also know that better plants are grown from cuttings than from divided tubers. These are the kind now sold in great quantity and they are better and surer bloomers.

Dahlia experts also advise cutting down the clumps in June if they have been started early to encourage side branches which give the bite crop of bloom. It was formerly believed that rich soil sent the dahlias all to leaf. Now we know that they demand rich soil for their best development and plenty of moisture.

Pinching out the early buds is recommended in order to force the plant to branch. The shy bloomers have been eliminated from the lists by dealers so that we now have a wonderful array of free-blooming varieties.

MOUNT PLEASANT INSTITUTE ENDS ITS 48TH TERM

Class of Nine Given Diplomas in Music; 226 Are Enrolled.

TEACHERS ARE RE-ELECTED

School Will Open Next Term Under Same Management; Three New Directors Are Named on Official Board; Other Items of Interest.

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 14.—The Mount Pleasant Institute yesterday closed one of the most successful years in the history of the school with the 48th annual commencement. At the meeting of the directors yesterday morning at the Institute building three new members were added. They are Iw. W. A. Marsh of Mount Pleasant, Bert Faust of Greensburg and Horace Boaler of Pittsburg. James Braddock was retained as president of the board and Dr. B. M. Loar as treasurer.

The directors will open the school next September under the same management, that of Miss Rubico, who will also teach piano, assisted by Miss Evelyn Pahel. Miss Guerney will be retained as voice teacher and Prof. J. H. Gambles as violin teacher. Mr. McClain will have charge of the business college another year.

During the past year there have been 45 business students and 233 musical students with 52 duplicates, meaning that some students have been registered in two different departments, making an actual attendance of 226. These came from Rockwood, Greensburg Yukon, Youngwood, Jones Mill, Uniontown, Dunbar, Connellsville, Scottdale and Mount Pleasant.

The institution has been self-supporting during the past year, the interest accumulated from the endowment fund totalling almost $10,000 and the endowment and interest together totaling over $57,000. It is the hope of the directors to some time later add new departments with this money.

The commencement took place in the Grand Opera House last evening. President James S. Braddock, presided. The class roll was the largest in music ever graduated from the Institute. On the roll was Catherine Mabel Finch, Helen Edelia Friedline, Eloise Roberta Hafer, Sara Smith Horner, Evelyn Estelle Koontz, Catherine Lorraine Loar, Rebecca Marsh, Sara Edna Neiderhiser, Paul E. Truxal and post graduate, Clark Ernest Pyle.

The program was carried out as follows: Music, by the orchestra, led by J. H. Gamble; invocation, Rev. R. L. Leatherman; address of welcome, Paul E. Truxal, president of the class. Musical numbers were as follows: Elizabeth's Prayer, from "Tannhauser"—Wagner, Miss Friedline; Soiree de Vienne—Schubert Liszt, Miss Koontz; "He Is Kind, He Is Good," from "Herodiade"—Massenet, Miss Loar; Valse de Concert—Wieniawski, Miss Marsh; Elsa Dream, from "Lohengrin," Wagner, Miss Horner; Scherzo in B Flat Minor—Chopin, Miss Hafer; Waltz Song, from "Romeo and Juliet"—Gounod, Miss Finch; Military March—Schubert, Tausig, Mr. Truxal; "Doest Thou Know That Fair Land?" from "Mignon,"—Thomas, Miss Neiderhiser. An excellent address was given to the senior class by Edward O. Tabor of Uniontown, of the law firm of Crow, Tabor and Shelby; music, by the orchestra; presentation of diplomas by Mr. Braddock, and music by the orchestra.

Personal.

The Mount Pleasant Jewish people held a picnic at Oakford Park yesterday with a special car running from here.

Mrs. Pinkins and family have moved from Vine street to New York City.

Miss Ohma Harmon who had spent a few days in Pittsburg, returned home yesterday.

THE SOISSON.

"THE SONG OF LIFE," a First National picture, featuring Gaston Glass, is the feature attraction today. Mr. Glass, juvenile lead, gives a most convincing portrayal as David Tilden, the struggling young husband who is "too proud to let his wife get a job,' holding as many men do, that a woman's place is in the home. When she does take a business position in preference to staying at home and washing the dishes, the young husband is displeased and becomes intensely jealous over the attentions which another man pays her. A tragic incident takes place, but David's old mother, realizing that the same conditions which brought unhappiness into her own life threatens disaster for the married life of her boy and his pretty, pleasure-loving wife, brings about a cheerful conclusion after one of the most dramatic climaxes ever shown in any picture. Georgia Woodthorpe is an appealing figure as the white-haired old mother, while Grace Darmond, as the petite unthinking little wife, gives one of the finest portrayals of her career.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE GRIM COMEDIAN," a Goldwyn picture, provides very entertaining program for today and tomorrow at this theatre. In confirmation of all the advace information that has been gleaned about Rita Weiman's first photoplay written directly for the screen, "The Grim Comedian," rouses us to add a word of commendation for the author's admirable work as well as for the fine treatment it has received at the hands of the director, Frank Lloyd and a cast of excellent players. Though the subject is delicate, there is nothing suggestive or undignified in the story. The drama revolves upon a mother's sacrifice for her daughter's welfare. But to reveal the story would be to mar the observer's enjoyment. Suffice it to say that the background is theatrical life behind the scenes. Many of the most beautiful night scenes we have ever seen on the screen show the white lights of Broadway at their whitest. It is said that leading players all the way from California to New York to photograph a few scenes on Broadway. These were taken by Norbert Brodin. The results are well worth the effort. The principal players in a well-balanced cast are Phoebe Hunt, Gloria Hope, Jack Holt and John Harron.

Friday and Saturday "The Western Demon," starring "Dill" Fairbanks, will be shown.

THE ORPHEUM.

"SENTIMENTAL TOMMY" the feature production today and tomorrow at this theatre, is a Paramount production presenting an all-star cast. A picture for young and old alike—that is the description that may be applied to Paramount's screen version of Sir James M. Barrie's "Sentimental Tommy." It is doubtful that many grown-ups exist who haven't a fond memory of Tommy's imagination and practically all of the youngsters today have read about him at one time or another. The story begins with Tommy's entrance with his sister, Elspeth to the Scotch village of Thrums and his rescue of Grizel from a crowd of youngsters who are throwing stones at her. It gives many episodes showing Tommy's flights of imagination which are humorous and wholesome. The story takes Tommy and Grizel to maturity when Grizel becomes demented after she finds her childhood sweetheart with another woman in his arms. The closing scenes are dramatic and full of heart interest. The role of Tommy is played by Gareth Hughes, a popular young leading man. May McAvoy is Grizel.

Friday and Saturday, "Old Dad" a First National picture, will be presented.

Northampton, Mass.—"In my work as a Nurse I find nothing heals rashes, chafing or a sore inflamed skin so quickly as Sykes Comfort Powder. I am sending you a picture of a baby who suffered dreadfully from a baby rash—and I used Sykes Comfort Powder with great success after everything else had failed to heal it."—Mrs. C. K. Local Independents Meet Pittsburg All Stars Here Saturday; Hard Game

Cokers Will Face Real Opposition in Lefty Clark, Pitcher.

INTEREST IN REDSOX

The Connellsville Independents are scheduled again with the Pittsburg All Stars the game to be played Saturday afternoon at Fayette Field A previous engagement was called off when rain interfered and when a game with the P J Malones was moved forward from the coming week-end into next month the All Stars were secured to fill the vacancy

The appearance of the Smoky City aggregation will probably tax the playing ability of the Cokers The team has been winning victories in the Pittsburg district this season mowing down independent aggregations with consistency Lefty Clark their pitcher, is reputed to be a real strike-out hurler and is reported to have made a record for strike-outs in the last five games pitched by him

Dunaway will be on the mound for the Cokers and it will be a twirling battle between two southpaws This will be interesting to watch The Mount Braddock twirler is an effective lad when he is going good and he is about due for one of those days

SYMPATHIES OF CROWD DIVIDED IN COMING GAME

When Jack Quinn goes on the mound for the Boston Redsox on July 3 baseball fans here will be divided in their sympathies They will be out to see the home team win and yet will have a desire to see the veteran representative of Dunbar in the major league turn back the Coker batters safely.

Were any other pitcher but Quinn on the mound the crowd would be out strong rooting for the Independents to hang it on the big leaguers but his presence is sure to cause a divided feeling Quinn, personally known to many in this section once went to school with local business men and even played ball with them on the back lots before getting into the big game He was formerly with the New York Yankees and during the past winter went to Boston in a deal He has been going good since joining the bean eaters but admits it will be different when meeting a semi-pro aggregation in his old home district

The Poplar Grove Klairdales will play the Dunbar baseball team at Dunbar Saturday at 4 o clock All Poplar Grove baseball players are to take the 3 30 o clock car dressed for the game

TY COBB'S HINT ON HITTING AT [illegible] FIELDERS IS WORTH HEEDING

Many of the great hitters of baseball are left handed batsmen They are great hitters because they can hit portside pitching as well as right handed and their ability to do this was the result of mastering the [illegible] left handed pitchers because they thought they could and kept on trying

Ty Cobb sporting an average of 370 a season for 15 seasons was a "sucker" for a left handed pitcher when he started his major league career He felt he could hit left handers and set about to overcome the handicap that was his by physical habit And after diligent effort, he was just as effective against the port siders as he was against right handers.

Cobb had left handers pitch to him until he was accustomed to the style and there is no reason why other left handed batters cannot overcome the handicap as Cobb did A good way to [illegible] it would be to cease talking about it and another would be to bat against left handed pitchers in batting practice as much as possible

BRITISH FORCES GET READY TO PLAY GOLF

Will Invade Our Links to Regain Lost Laurels.

Leitch Sisters and Joyce Wethered Coming for Woman's Championships and Four of Foremost Professionals Expected

American courses are to bear the brunt of international competition this summer for starting late in June the invasion of the best British talent, women's amateur and professional ranks will begin The Leitch sisters and Miss Joyce Wethered are coming for the woman's championships and four of the land's foremost professionals George Duncan Abe Mitchell Alex Hurd and J H Taylor will be here for the open championship and later tour of the country afterward The amateurs probably will not arrive until later in the season or in a short time before the national championship at Brookline September 4 9

Although American amateurs will compete for the English title the international situation is much the reverse of last year's when America was represented heavily in English tournament play by both amateur and professionals writes Rockwell R Stephens in the Chicago News Jesse Guilford the American amateur champion, all winter has been slated to go across and as no contrary word has come is considered to be a sure competitor at Prestwick

For a time reports were persistent that Francis Ouimet would go over with Guilford but the 1913 champion has recently denied that he has any intention of going At the time he made the statement that he would not compete in England he also had something to say about the English system of playing matches at 18 holes which he declared was unfair and no test of real golf ability He compared the 18 hole match to asking old Jim to get up speed in a quarter mile race

OUTPOST WAS PLAYING DEEP

Outfielder on Joplin Grounds Was Up to His Ankles in Water When Game Started

Joplin's ball park has a decided slope away from the infield to the outfield

After a heavy rain the infield dries rapidly while the garden is liable to hold water quite a while.

Joe Tinker tells of a game he played there once following a near cloud burst When the pitcher took the slab for the first time he turned and noticed the center fielder playing in close behind second base He paused and motioned the gardener back.

"Play it deeper Bill" he yelled

"Deeper?" shouted Bill "How deep? I'm up to my ankles now."

"CAP" STUBBS — IT CAN'T BE DONE. — By EDWINA

"Git in—ever body—git in—quick!"

From a watch tower too, a rifle had cracked A naked savage had bounded into a spot of sunlight that quivered on the buffalo trail a hundred yards deep in the forest and leaped lithely aside into the bushes—both rifles had missed Deeper from the woods came two war-whoops—real ones—and in the silence that followed the gates were swiftly closed and barred and a keen-eyed rifleman was at every port hole in the fort From the tower old Jerome saw reeds begin to shake in a cane-brake to the left of the spring

"Look thar" he called, and three rifles, with his own, covered the spot A small brown arm was thrust above the shaking reeds, with the palm of the hand toward the fort—the peace sign of the Indian—and a moment later a naked boy sprang from the cane-brake and ran toward the block-house with a bow and arrow in his left hand and his right stretched above his head, its pleading palm still outward

"Don't shoot!—don't nobody shoot!" shouted the old man No shot came from the fort, but from the woods came yells of rage, and as the boy streaked through the clearing an arrow whistled past his head

"Let him in!" shouted Jerome and as Dave opened the gates another arrow hurtled between the boy's upraised arm and his body and stuck quivering in one of its upright bars The boy slid through and stood panting, shrinking, wild-eyed The arrow had grazed his skin and when Dave lifted his arm and looked at the oozing drops of blood he gave a startled oath, for he saw a flash of white under the loosened breech-clout below The boy understood Quickly he pushed the clout aside on his thigh that all might see nodded gravely, and proudly tapped his breast

"Paleface!" he half grunted "white man!"

The wilds were quiet. The boy pointed to them and held up three fingers to indicate that there were only three red men there, and shook his head to say there would be no attack from them Old Jerome studied the little stranger closely, wondering what new trick those red devils were trying now to play Dave made an impatient gesture for silence.

"Francais—French?" he asked, and in turn the big woodsman shook his head—nobody there spoke French However Dave knew a little Shawnee a good deal of the sign-language, and the boy seemed to understand a good many words in English, so that the big woodsman pieced out his story with considerable accuracy and turned to tell it to Jerome The Indians had crossed the Big river were as many as the leaves, and meant to attack the whites For the first time they had allowed the boy to go on a war party Some one had treated him badly—he pointed out the bruises of cuffs and kicks on his body The Indians called him White Arrow and he knew he was white from the girdle of un-tanned skin under his breech-clout and because the Indian boys taunted him Asked why he had come to the fort he pointed again to his bruises put both hands against his breast, and stretched them wide as though he would seek shelter in the arms of his own race and take them to his heart, and for the first time a smile came to his face that showed him plainly as a curious product of his race and the savage forces that for years had been moulding him That smile could have never come to the face of an Indian. No Indian would ever have so lost himself in his own emotions No white man would have used his gestures and the symbols of nature to which he appealed. Only an Indian could have shown such a cruel, vindictive merciless fire in his eyes when he told of his wrongs and when he saw tears in Lydia's eyes the first burning in his life came to his own, and brushing across them with fierce shame he turned Indian stoic again and stood with his arms folded over his bow and arrows at his breast looking neither to right nor left as though he were waiting for judgment at their hands and cared little what his fate might be as perfect from head to foot as a statue of the ancient little god who in him had forsaken the couches of love for the tents of war.

CHAPTER II

Old Jerome and Dave and the older men gathered in one corner of the stockade for a council of war The boy had made it plain that the attacking party was at least two days behind the three Indians from whom he had escaped so that there was no danger that day, and they could wait until night to send messengers to warn the settlers outside to seek safety within the fort Meanwhile Jerome would dispatch five men with Dave to scout for the three Indians who might be near by in the woods, and the boy who saw them slip out the rear gate of the fort at once knew their purpose shook his head, and waved his hand to say that his late friends were gone back to hurry on the big war party to the attack now that the whites themselves knew their danger Old Jerome nodded that he understood and nodded to others his appreciation of the sense and keenness of the lad, but he let the men go just the same

Mother Sanders appeared and cried to Bud to bring the "Injun" to her cabin She had been unearthing clothes for the little heathen and Bud helped to put them on In a few minutes the lad reappeared in a linsey hunting shirt and trousers wriggling in them most uncomfortably for they made him itch but at the same time wearing them proudly

On the mighty wilderness the sun sank slowly and old Jerome sat in the western tower to watch alone The silence out there was oppressive and significant for it meant that the boy's theory was right the three Indians had gone back to their fellows, and when darkness came the old man sent runners to the outlying cabins to warn the inmates to take refuge within the fort And the gathering was none too soon The hooting of owls started before dawn A flaming arrow hissed from the woods, thudded into the roof of one of the cabins, sputtered feebly on a dew-drenched ridge-pole and went out Savage war whoops rent the air and the battle was on All day the fight went on There were feints of attack in front and rushes from the rear and there were rushes from all sides The women loaded rifles and cooked and cared for the wounded Thrice an Indian reached the wall of the stockade and set a cabin on fire but no one of the three got back to the woods alive The stranger boy sat stoically in the center of the enclosure watching everything and making no effort to take part Late in the afternoon the ammunition began to run low and the muddy discoloration of the river showed that the red men had begun to tunnel under the walls of the fort And yet a last sally was made just before sunset A body pushed against Dave in the tower and Dave saw the stranger boy at his side with his bow and arrow A few minutes later he heard a yell from the lad which rang high over the din and he saw the feathered tip of an arrow shaking in the breast of a big Indian who staggered and fell behind a bush Just at that moment there were yells from the woods behind—the yells of white men that were answered by joyful yells within the fort

"The Virginians! The Virginians!" And as the rescuers dashed into sight on horse and afoot Dave saw the lad leap the wall of the stockade and disappear behind the flying Indians

"Gone back to em" he grunted to himself. The gates were thrown open Old Jerome and his men rushed out, and besieged and rescuers poured all their fire after the running Indians, some of whom turned bravely to empty their rifles once more

"Git in! Git in quick!" yelled old Joel He knew another volley would come as soon as the Indians reached the cover of thick woods and come the volley did Three men fell—one the leader of the Virginians whose head flopped forward as he entered the gate and was caught in old Joel's arms Not another sound came from the woods, but again Dave from the tower saw the cane-brush rustle at the edge of a thicket, saw a hand thrust upward with the palm of peace toward the fort and again the stranger boy emerged—this time with a bloody scalp dangling in his left hand Dave sprang down and met him at the gate The boy shook his bow and arrow proudly pointed to a criss-cross scar on the scalp and Dave made out from his explanation that once before the lad had tried to kill his tormentor and that the scar was the sign In the center of the enclosure the wounded Virginian lay, and when old Jerome stripped the shirt from his breast he shook his head gravely The wounded man opened his eyes just in time to see and he smiled

"I know it" he said faintly, and then his eyes caught the boy with the

"Who Is That Boy?" He Asked Sharply

scalp, were fixed steadily and began to widen

"Who is that boy?" he asked sharply

"Never mind now," said old Joel soothingly "you must keep still" The boy's eyes had begun to shift under the scrutiny and he started away

"Come back here!" commanded the wounded man and still searching the lad he said sharply again

"Who is that boy?" Nor would he have his wound dressed or even take the cup of water handed him until old Joel briefly told the story when he lay back on the ground and closed his eyes

Darkness fell [illegible] each tower a watcher kept his eyes turned toward the black silent woods The dying man was laid on a cot [illegible] within one cabin and old Joel lay on the floor [illegible] close to the door [illegible] [illegible] the ground [illegible] took aside Men women and children [illegible] An hour later the boy in the corner threw aside his blanket and when a moment later Lydia Noe feverish and thirsty rose from her bed to get a drink of water outside her door she stopped short on the threshold The lad [illegible] for his breech clout and swinging his bloody scalp over his head was stamping round the fire—dancing the scalp dance of the savage to a low [illegible] guttural song The boy saw her face in the blaze stricken white with fright and horror saw her [illegible] to move and [illegible] staring at her a moment [illegible] and went on again Old Joel's body filled the next doorway He called out with a harsh oath and [illegible] the boy stopped [illegible] threatening gesture to [illegible] [illegible] and with a flare of defiance in his black eyes the lad stalked slowly and proudly away From behind him the voice of the wounded man called and old Joel turned. There was a ghastly smile on the Virginian's pallid face

"I saw it" he said painfully "that's—that's my son"

CHAPTER III

From the summit on the edge of the high bald [illegible] path of thick grass [illegible] as a modern highway [illegible] hundreds of yards between ledges of forest [illegible] the great manor house [illegible] from the river [illegible] oaks Behind the house [illegible] [illegible] whites [illegible] slaves Already [illegible] had been built a hundred years [illegible] brick brought from England in the [illegible] own ships [illegible] son of the [illegible] Colonel Dale sat [illegible] veranda alone [illegible] this second [illegible] his [illegible] brother had [illegible] spirit of [illegible] adventure [illegible] [illegible] when [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] and their only [illegible] a captive among the Indians [illegible] still word came that the father, too, had met death from the savages and the little [illegible] into Colonel Dale's hands.

After I had taken half a bottle I felt a change and was soon as well as ever I took it the whole time and recommend it to every woman who is suffering as I was People said that because I was so young I would never pull through and I praise your Vegetable Compound for my good health"—Mrs. ENOCH J STEVENS, 809 Fayard St., Biloxi, Miss

Chicago, Ill —"I recommend Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all prospective mothers I suffered from weakness and faint spells and had to lie down twice a day for an hour or so before I could go on with my work My cousin, who lives in Wisconsin, has used your Vegetable Compound for over five years and she came to us for a visit and she recommended it to me, saying she would pay for the bottle if it did not help me I took that bottle and got more, and I found it gave me great relief I recommend it to my friends and sisters and am willing for you to use these facts to help others."—Mrs J J KUBINSKI, 1813 W. 17th St, Chicago, Ill nois

Conpitek Club Plans to Enlarge Scope of Work; Has Membership of 14

Formed just about six months ago the Copitek Club composed of Connellsville students attending the University of Pittsburg and Carnegie Institute of Technology has done much in the way of promoting the welfare of the members and is planning to extend its scope of usefulness says a letter from C Edwin Keagy a member to the editor of The Courier The name as a study will show is derived from Connellsville and the two institutions in which the members are students The letter from Mr Keagy reads

The school year has practically been drawn to a close now and in summing up the activities of the Copitek Club we feel that a good start has been made The club as you know was organized shortly before the Christmas vacation but did not get a full start until about the latter part of January Since that time it has forged ahead to the front among the many out of town clubs at both the University of Pittsburg and the Carnegie Institute of Technology and is strongly maintaining its place there Among the many activities of the club none was more important in our belief, than the trip that was taken to the high school in Connellsville where short talks were given by Miss Kathryn Wilhelm and C Edwin Keagy at the general assembly and the few words spoken by each member of the club on college life to the senior class who remained after the assembly

Following in order with this the club secured the names of every boy and girl who graduated from the high school this year and with the names of many others sent out a booklet of information for prospective students from both the University of Pittsburg and the Carnegie Institute of Technology Inclosed with the booklet a letter from the Copitek Club pointed out the advisability of knowing something about the college or university before the prospective student enters The title of the booklet is 'A Booklet of Information for Prospective Students Over 250 of these have been sent out by the club during the year to students in and about Connellsville

"The registrars of both schools have congratulated the Copitek Club on behalf of the schools for the active cooperation and interest the club is giving

"The club has however not forgotten the social end of its obligations and has put forth an earnest effort to bring together more Connellsville people in Pittsburg and secure new members for the club The meetings which have been held bi monthly in the Oakland Community House have usually been followed by a social hour where students from Connellsville attending school in Pittsburg who were formerly strangers to each other became acquainted and their interest in the club increased

"One of the outstanding features of the club's social calendar was a dance given at the Green Lantern in Wilkinsburg last month The dance was given for the members of the club and their friends and for prospective members of the club This gave those who were not members of the club the opportunity to become acquainted with those who were and to get an idea of the way we are doing things here About 30 couples attended the dance

There is one big factor which the club is promoting which I must not fail to tell you of Between the two schools there are in the neighborhood of 25 out of town clubs that are active It is the idea of the Copitek Club to form a council of these clubs somewhat similar to the interfraternity council whereby one club may help another and their combined efforts used to put before the high school students of every town and city represented the necessity of a college education The Copitek Club has taken the lead in this matter and has received hearty cooperation from many different sources in the formulation of this council which we expect to take place at the beginning of the next school year The sponsoring of such a movement means considerable work on our part but we are desirous that the Connellsville people feel that their home town organization is capable of doing something big and worth while I do not know of another club at either school that has in such a short existence turned out as much work or taken such whole hearted interest in scholastic affairs as the Copitek Club

"The last regular meeting of the school year was held May 31 at which the officers for the next ensuing year were elected The result of the election was as follows President Joseph Wrote vice-president Kathryn Wilhelm secretary Dewey H Miller treasurer, Paul Buttermore chairman of the social committee C Edwin Keagy Two new members Robert D Schell and Gerald Schoonover were voted into the club This brings the total number of members in the club to 14 They are Carnegie Institute of Technology Sara Esther West Helen McKee Dewey H Miller Joseph Wrote Wilbert M Stillwagon Robert D Schell and Gerald Schoonover University of Pittsburg Kathryn Wilhelm Elizabeth Mull Laura Belle Kooser C Edwin Keagy Paul Buttermore Howard Reppert and Grant Clarke

'The club is going strong and next year we expect to have a larger membership and engage in many more activities than this year We certainly are indebted to you for the splendid way in which The Courier cooperates with the club in its work and on behalf of the organization I want to tender you our very kindest appreciation and thanks'

MRS. NORTH IS ENTHUSIASTIC IN HER STATEMENT

Has Never Felt Better in All Her Life, Declares Pittsburg Resident and Every One of Former Troubles Is Gone.

'In all my life I can't remember feeling better than I do now and words alone just can not express my gratitude to Fanito' said Mrs Walter North 12st Sandusky St Pittsburg Pa

For a long time I had stomach trouble so bad I couldn't eat anything but toast and eggs often not even that and after a meal I bloated all up with gas and suffered hours At times even the sight or smell of food would cause me to have a full sick feeling in my stomach My nerves were in such a wrecked condition the least noise would upset me during the day and nights I lay awake for hours never sleeping more than a little while early in the morning I was so run down and weak my housework was a burden and I was constantly bothered with headaches and dizzy spells

"Well I suffered for three years and no nothing else did me any good I decided to try Fanito and I know from my own experience it will do everything it's claimed to do Once more I am eating what I want and three times a day I eat a hearty meal without suffering afterwards I'm in fine health in every way and I gladly give this statement for what it may be worth to others
